

Tired of having to look down whenever you walk in the city for fear of stepping on gum or dog poop? My idea is to invent a sensing pavement that will be able to transmit a sound like a beep warning passerbys that there is something they do not want to step on in the sidewalk. This sensing pavement will be able to detect the presence of gum and other substances and emit a beeping sound as people approach the undesirable spots

GUM

DOG POOP